Steve Hansen Design Inc.

Biography

Name: Steve Hansen, IDS, ASID

Biography: Passionate about design in its myriad forms, Steven Hansen is fortunate to have had the opportunity to work in many areas of concentration alongside seasoned professionals in the areas of Interior Design, Architecture, Landscaping, and Engineering. Throughout his Seventeen years of work experience in the field, this has allowed him to develop a rather unique approach to solving interior design problems, one that encompasses a view to finding comprehensive unified solutions in all the work he has undertaken.

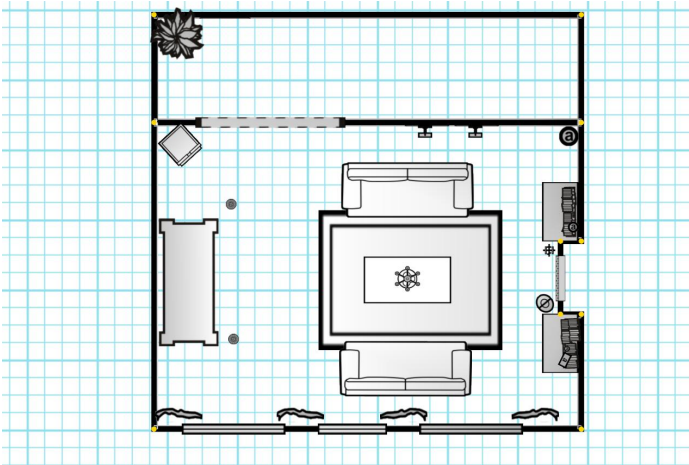

Having been raised and educated in both North Carolina, and Toronto, Steven feels equally at home within these two very different cultures. In Carolina, Thomas studied Interior Design at Western Carolina University, and worked full time with the reputable Interior Design firm of Rick and Rick Design, which specialized in prestigious residential design, historic preservation, and the creation of corporate facilities for notable companies such as Jupiter Industries. The firm also participated regularly in the Atlanta Symphony Showhouse Project, which was designed to raise funds for that organization. The opportunity to work within a full service interior design firm allowed Steven to experience a great diversity of challenging projects of stature, such as hospitality design for the like of Marriot Suites, etc.

The design philosophy that Steven embraces stems from the belief that if something is worth doing, it is worth doing well. In interior design projects, excellent communication between client and designer begins through the attentive listening to the clients stated needs, wants, and desires. The designer identifies the problems that need to be addressed in the project and begins to morph the functional solutions and aesthetic expression with the clients' vision into a final unifying concept. The design solution should stress the preeminence of function, incorporate high quality workmanship, and deliver the superior aesthetic required in achieving client satisfaction in any given project.
